HUNTING SEASON CAMPAIGN

"I have found dignity, not in the cities, but in the jungle. I have found honor, not in the civilized, but in the primal. I have found morality, I have found meaning – in the hunt."

– Kraven the Hunter

Welcome to Hunting Season! This custom campaign expansion comes with five custom scenarios that tell the story of a crazed hunter going after animal-themed villains for his own sense of morality.

VILLAIN CARDS

Each of the five new scenarios in this expansion features a new villain: Vermin, Scorpion, The Lizard, Vulture, and Kraven the Hunter. Each scenario has its own section in this rulebook.

IDENTITY CARDS

There are no new heroes included in this expansion, but I recommend using animal-themed heroes such as Spider-Man, Spider-Woman, Black Panther, Ant-Man or Wasp, to truly immerse yourself in the hunting theme.

COMPONENTS

226 cards, consisting of 57 player cards, 15 villain cards, 138 encounter cards, and 16 trap cards.

NEW MODE OF PLAY

Each of the scenarios in this custom expansion can be played individually as standalone adventures, or as part of one epic campaign.

CAMPAIGN MODE RULES

Campaign mode combines all five scenarios in the Hunting Season expansion into one epic experience where the outcome of each game impacts the next scenario. To complete the campaign, the players must win all five scenarios in numerical order, starting with scenario #1 – Vermin and ending with scenario #5 – Kraven the Hunter.

To begin a campaign, the players start by choosing their heroes. Each player must use their chosen identity for the entire campaign, but they are free to change aspects and alter the contents of their deck following the deck customization rules in the Marvel Champions Rules Reference between scenarios.

To play a scenario in campaign mode, set up the scenario as per the normal rules of the game. Then, follow that scenario's setup instructions in the order in which they are listed in the Campaign Instructions.

When the game ends, if the players won, follow that scenario's victory instructions in the order in which they are listed in the Campaign Instructions. If the players lost, follow that scenario's loss instructions in the order in which they are listed in the Campaign Instructions.

CAMPAIGN LOG

The campaign log found on the last page of this rulebook tracks the progress of the entire campaign. At the end of each scenario, the players record their results by entering the required information in the campaign log.

CARDS ADDED TO DECKS

During a campaign, cards can be added to players' decks as part of a scenario's victory instructions, or in between scenarios in The Lodge (see page 3). When a card is added to a player's deck this way, write that card's title in the matching field of the campaign log.

Added cards must be included in the player's deck for the rest of the campaign. Cards added to the deck as part of a campaign do not count toward a player's minimum or maximum deck size.

Cards that were created specifically for use in the Hunting Season campaign cannot be included in any player's deck unless they are playing that campaign and the players were directed to add them to their decks by the Campaign Instructions.

EXPERT CAMPAIGN

For players who want a more challenging campaign experience, The Hunting Season expansion comes with everything you need to play an expert campaign. The rules for this alternate play format are found on page 11.

» Some setup, victory and loss instructions are preceded by Expert Campaign Only. Players should ignore these instructions unless they are playing an expert campaign.

HUNTER MODE

For players who want an expert campaign with more challenge, The Hunting Season expansion comes with a "Hunter Mode" environment for each scenario that increases the difficulty. The rules for this alternate play format are found on page 11.

➤ Some setup, victory and loss instructions are preceded by Hunter Mode Only. Players should ignore these instructions unless they are playing an expert campaign on Hunter Mode.

EXPERIENCE

During a campaign, in a scenario's victory and loss instructions, players will earn Experience based on their performance. This symbolizes that hero's experience with hunting and the wild. A player's current number of Experience must be written down in the campaign log.

THE LODGE

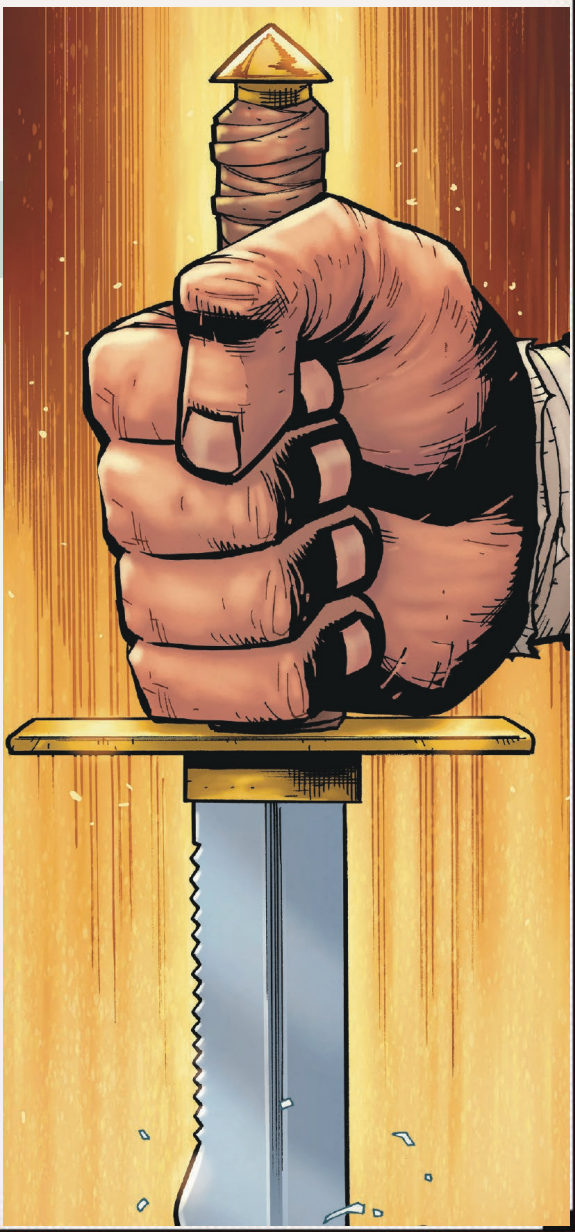

Between each scenario, players get the option to add cards to their deck from The Lodge. These cards have the text "Experience Cost" followed by a number. This number states how much Experience a player must spend to add that card to their deck. This act symbolizes the hero using their hunting experience to gain new skills, allies and items. After spending their Experience, that player must write down in the campaign log how much Experience they have left.

The cards available in The Lodge at the start of the campaign is: Rocket Raccoon (x1), Old Man Logan (x1), Black Cat (x1), Ka-Zar (x1), Evade (x3), Taunt (x3), Steadfast (x3), Finish Them Off (x3), Fresh Tracks (x3), Savage Land (x1), Hunting Rifle (x3), Hatchet (x3), Hunterbot (x3), Trap (x3), and In Hiding (x3).

Gibbon (x1) is set aside and cannot be added to any player's deck until the campaign instructs the card to be added to The Lodge.

THE MASTER HUNTER

At the start of the campaign the players decide on which player to give the title of Master Hunter. If the players are unable to decide, the title goes to the player who last met an untamed animal in the wild. The Master Hunter will be instructed to make decisions or decide ties during the campaign by the campaign instructions of some scenarios.

SCENARIO #1 – VERMIN

The human-rat hybrid Vermin has come out of the sewers of New York City and brought with him a giant swarm of rats. We don't know what has triggered his actions, but that is not important right now. The NYPD officers and the S.H.I.E.L.D. soldiers stationed there stand defenseless against the many rats threatening to invade the city. Vermin cannot be reasoned with in his enraged state, so we need your help to defeat him, which will hopefully cause the rats following him to return to the sewers.

Villain Deck: Vermin (I), Vermin (II)

Remove Vermin (I) and add Vermin (III) for expert mode.

Main Scheme Deck: Rats and More Rats; Rats, Rats and More Rats

Encounter Deck: Vermin set, Feral Instincts, and Standard set. (The Standard set can be found in the Marvel Champions core-set.)

The Feral Instincts set can be removed from this scenario and/or added to other scenarios when using the scenario customization rules.

CAMPAIGN INSTRUCTIONS

SETUP:

- Each player records their identity in the campaign log found on the last page of this rulebook. Players cannot switch identities during a campaign.

- Hunter Mode Only: Put the Rabid Rodents environment from the Hunter Mode set into play.

VICTORY:

You have successfully defeated Vermin, and the remaining rats have skittered back into the sewers. When you ask Vermin why he did what he did, he says: "Big hairy man find Vermin... hurt Vermin... Vermin get mad and lose control. Vermin must find hairy man and hurt him back! Vermin come with you?"

- The players decide on one player to add the Vermin ally from the Hunt Campaign set to their deck. If they are unable to decide, the Master Hunter decides.
- Each player earns 3 Experience.
- Each player not engaged with any rat minions earns 1 Experience.
- If the current stage of the main Scheme is Rats and More Rats, each player earns 1 Experience.

- Expert Campaign Only: Record each identity's remaining hit points in the campaign log, as well as any cards added to their deck and any Experience earned.

- Hunter Mode Only: Each player earns 1 Experience.

LOSS:

Failing to defeat Vermin, the rat swarm grows ever larger, and New York City is put into quarantine to contain it. Vermin runs away, but no one is able to follow him and see where he's headed.

- Each player earns 2 Experience.
- Each player not engaged with any rat minions, earns 1 Experience.
- Record in your campaign log that Vermin escaped.

- Expert Campaign Only: Record each identity's remaining hit points in the campaign log, as well as any Experience earned.

VISITING THE LODGE:

The players may now add cards to their decks from The Lodge by spending their Experience, before moving on to the next scenario.

SCENARIO #2 – SCORPION

A few days go by as you attempt to recover from your fight with Vermin. Suddenly you get a call from S.H.I.E.L.D.:

"The famous media personality J. Jonah Jameson Jr. has reported that Scorpion is seeking revenge against him for something that happened between them in the past. This info has been known for a while, but it's only now that Scorpion has decided to get revenge, possibly hoping to kill his target. We need you to defeat Scorpion before he gets his pincers in Mr. Jameson."

Villain Deck: Scorpion (I), Scorpion (II)

Remove Scorpion (I) and add Scorpion (III) for expert mode.

Main Scheme Deck: Thirst for Revenge, Vengeful Pursuit

Encounter Deck: Scorpion set, Feral Instincts, and Standard set. (The Standard set can be found in the Marvel Champions core-set.)

The Feral Instincts set can be removed from this scenario and/or added to other scenarios when using the scenario customization rules.

CAMPAIGN INSTRUCTIONS

SETUP:

- Each player may spend 2 Experience to increase their starting hand size by 1. The additional card a player draws this way is only drawn during setup.

- Expert Campaign Only: Set each player's hit points to their remaining hit point value recorded in the campaign log for the previous scenario.

- Expert Campaign Only: Each player may spend any amount of Experience they have, and heal 1 damage from their identity for each Experience they spend this way.

- Expert Campaign Only: Each player may add 1 random obligation from their expert campaign set to their deck to heal their identity to its full hit point value.

- Hunter Mode Only: Put the Sting of the Scorpion environment from the Hunter Mode set into play.

VICTORY:

You have successfully defeated Scorpion and protected J. Jonah. Jameson from his wrath. When Scorpion comes to, he says: "I've wanted to kill that snake Jameson for ages! I've been a good guy and restrained myself, but a few days ago, a guy injected me with some kind of serum that made me lose my mind. I didn't see who he was, but he had a stupid Russian accent. I have to come with you to get my revenge on that creep."

- The players decide on the player who owns the least amount of predator allies, to add the Scorpion ally from the Hunt Campaign set to their deck. The Master Hunter decides ties.

- Record in your campaign log that Scorpion joined you.

- Each player earns 3 Experience.

- If the J. Jonah Jameson support has 1 or no wound counters on it, each player earns 1 Experience. Jameson says this: "That was a close call. You heroes are still MENACES, but I will go a bit lighter on you in the future".

- If the Scorpion's Tail attachment is set aside, each player earns 1 Experience.

- Expert Campaign Only: Record each identity's remaining hit points in the campaign log, as well as any cards added to their deck and any Experience earned.

- Hunter Mode Only: Each player earns 1 Experience.

LOSS:

Scorpion gets a hold of J. Jonah. Jameson Jr. and kills him in cold blood. The enraged fiend ignores you, and runs away somewhere, without anyone able to track him.

- Each player earns 2 Experience.

- If the Scorpion's Tail attachment is set aside, each player earns 1 Experience.

- Watching Jameson die like that was traumatizing. Each player must remove 1 hero-specific card from their deck from the game.

- Expert Campaign Only: Record each identity's remaining hit points in the campaign log, as well as any cards removed from their deck, and any Experience earned.

VISITING THE LODGE:

The players may now add cards to their decks from The Lodge by spending their Experience, before moving on to the next scenario.

SCENARIO #3 – LIZARD

A few days go by as you attempt to recover from your fight with Scorpion. Suddenly you get a call from Dr. Curtis Connors:

"There's no easy way to say this. He's speaking to me again, and I've been feeling strange lately. I thought I had gotten rid of him for good. Please come and help me before I hurt anyone."

Villain Deck: Curtis Connors (I), Curtis Connors (II)

Remove Curtis Connors (I) and add Curtis Connors (III) for expert mode.

Main Scheme Deck: Using the Mammal Brain, Reptile Brain Taking Over, No Humanity Left.

Encounter Deck: Lizard set, Lizard Thralls, and Standard set. (The Standard set can be found in the Marvel Champions core-set.)

The Lizard Thralls set can be removed from this scenario and/or added to other scenarios when using the scenario customization rules.

TWO VILLAIN FORMS

This villain has two forms, same as in the scenario Risky Business, and the same rules apply here for when the villain changes form and when a villain stage is defeated.

After the villain changes form, all attachment cards, status cards, boost cards, damage, and other game elements associated with the villain remain as they are. After a villain stage is defeated, the next stage of the villain deck enters play on the same side as the just defeated stage.

CAMPAIGN INSTRUCTIONS

SETUP:

- Each player may spend 2 Experience to increase their starting hand size by 1. The additional card a player draws this way is only drawn during setup.

- Expert Campaign Only: Set each player's hit points to their remaining hit point value recorded in the campaign log for the previous scenario.

- Expert Campaign Only: Each player may spend any amount of Experience they have, and heal 1 damage from their identity for each Experience they spend this way.

- Expert Campaign Only: Each player may add 1 random obligation from their expert campaign set to their deck to heal their identity to its full hit point value.

- Hunter Mode Only: Put the Cold-Blooded environment from the Hunter Mode set into play.

VICTORY:

After defeating the Lizard, it takes a little while before Curtis Connors recuperates. When he does, he says this: "I'm deeply sorry for my actions. I'm not one to make excuses, but I believe this recent event was caused by a man that broke into my apartment a few days ago. He beat me up and injected me with something he called Instinct-X, which I assume is what awoke my animal instincts. I don't know who he was, but he was clad in animal hide. If you can give me another chance, and let me join you, I can help you find him."

- The players decide on the player who owns the least amount of predator allies, to add the Lizard ally from the Hunt Campaign set to their deck. The Master Hunter decides ties.

- Each player earns 3 Experience.

- If the current stage of the main scheme is Using the Mammal Brain or Reptile Brain Taking Over, each player earns 1 Experience.

- If the Lizard has less than 1 reptile attachment per player attached to him, each player earns 1 Experience.

- Expert Campaign Only: Record each identity's remaining hit points in the campaign log, as well as any cards added to their deck and any Experience earned.

- Hunter Mode Only: Each player earns 1 Experience.

LOSS:

Any trace of Curtis Connors is completely gone, and all that remains is the monstrous Lizard. It screeches at you, before running away somewhere.

- Each player earns 2 Experience.

- If the current stage of the main scheme is Using the Mammal Brain or Reptile Brain Taking Over, each player earns 1 Experience.

- If the Lizard has less than 1 reptile attachment per player attached to him, each player earns 1 Experience.

- Not being able to save Curtis Connors was devastating. Each player must remove 1 hero-specific card from their deck from the game.

- Record in your campaign log that Lizard escaped.

- Expert Campaign Only: Record each identity's remaining hit points in the campaign log, as well as any cards removed from their deck, and any Experience earned.

VISITING THE LODGE:

The players may now add cards to their decks from The Lodge by spending their Experience, before moving on to the next scenario.

SCENARIO #4 – VULTURE

A few days go by as you attempt to recover from your fight with Lizard, and no new clues have come up about the culprit behind all of this. Right now, the only thing you can do is wait for another peculiar event to happen and try to gather info from it. Speak of the devil! A man-bird like creature swoops through your window, picks you up and drops you on the asphalt outside your apartment. You look up and see that this menacing creature is Vulture, grinning down at you. Before you're able to react, he flies off to cause more mayhem.

Villain Deck: Vulture (I), Vulture (II)

Remove Vulture (I) and add Vulture (III) for expert mode.

Main Scheme Deck: Aerial Mayhem

Encounter Deck: Vulture set, Red Vulture, and Standard set. (The Standard set can be found in the Marvel Champions core-set.)

The Red Vulture set can be removed from this scenario and/or added to other scenarios when using the scenario customization rules.

AERIAL TRACKERS

This scenario comes with two-sided aerial trackers which makes it easier to know if a character has the aerial trait or not. You're not required to use it, but it will be helpful, because a lot of characters will gain aerial in this scenario. While a character has aerial, the aerial tracker is on the Aerial side, and while a character doesn't have aerial, the aerial tracker is on the Grounded side. This tracker may look like a status card, but it isn't a status card, and it won't interact with any effects referring to status cards.

CAMPAIGN INSTRUCTIONS

SETUP:

- Each player may spend 2 Experience to increase their starting hand size by 1. The additional card a player draws this way is only drawn during setup.

- Expert Campaign Only: Set each player's hit points to their remaining hit point value recorded in the campaign log for the previous scenario.

- Expert Campaign Only: Each player may spend any amount of Experience they have, and heal 1 damage from their identity for each Experience they spend this way.

- Expert Campaign Only: Each player may add 1 random obligation from their expert campaign set to their deck to heal their identity to its full hit point value.

- Hunter Mode Only: Put the Aerial Excellence environment from the Hunter Mode set into play.

VICTORY:

Vulture falls to the ground, and sits there for a while with a stern expression. When he finally opens his mouth (beak?), he says this: "I know I can be cruel, but what I just did was out of my control. Kraven the Hunter jumped me earlier and injected me with some concoction of his, probably made from jungle herbs, knowing him. We were in the Sinister Six together, that traitor! Kraven thinks he can mess with the Vulture?! He can't be far from here, so I should easily be able to spot him from the sky. I hate to admit it, but I'll probably need your assistance in taking him down..."

- The players decide on the player who owns the least amount of predator allies, to add the Vulture ally from the Hunt Campaign set to their deck. The Master Hunter decides ties.
- Record in your campaign log that Vulture joined you.
- Each player earns 3 Experience.
- Each player with half or more of their maximum hit points remaining, earns 1 Experience.
- If the main scheme has less than 7 threat per player on it, each player earns 1 Experience.
- Add the set aside Gibbon ally to the Lodge.

- Expert Campaign Only: Record each identity's remaining hit points in the campaign log, as well as any cards added to their deck and any Experience earned.

- Hunter Mode Only: Each player earns 1 Experience.

LOSS:

Having failed to stop Vulture, he finally gets bored of his mayhem-making, and flies away. You were prepared for this, and was able to attach a GPS tracker to him during the fight. Hopefully he leads you straight to the craven behind all of this.

- Each player earns 2 Experience.
- Each player with half or more of their maximum hit points remaining, earns 1 Experience.
- If the main scheme has less than 7 threat per player on it, each player earns 1 Experience.

- Expert Campaign Only: Record each identity's remaining hit points in the campaign log, as well as any cards removed from their deck, and any Experience earned.

VISITING THE LODGE:

The players may now add cards to their decks from The Lodge by spending their Experience, before moving on to the next and final scenario.

SCENARIO #5 – KRAVEN THE HUNTER

By following Vulture, you attempt to find the mastermind behind this past few week's string of events. Unfortunately, the mastermind finds you first. You hear a bullet shot whizzing past you, hitting the ground. It came from a sniper standing on the roof of a building in front of you. Even though the sniper is far away, you can clearly see who it is. Dressed in fashionable leopard skin and wearing a lion mane around his neck, stands the proud hunter Sergei Kravinoff, infamously known as Kraven the Hunter.

Villain Deck: Kraven The Hunter (I), Kraven The Hunter (II)

Remove Kraven The Hunter (I) and add Kraven The Hunter (III) for expert mode.

Main Scheme Deck: Acquiring Targets, The Great Hunt

Encounter Deck: Kraven the Hunter set, Savage Six, and Standard set. (The Standard set can be found in the Marvel Champions core-set.)

The Savage Six set can be removed from this scenario and/or added to other scenarios when using the scenario customization rules.

TRAP DECK

Kraven the Hunter starts the game with a special "trap" deck. To create the trap deck, shuffle all 16 of Kraven the Hunter's trap cards together (Ferocious Lion (x2), Fierce Cheetah (x2), Bear Trap (x2), Capture Net (x2), Quicksand (x2), Tranquilizer Darts (x3), Swinging Boulder (x3)). Then, place the trap deck face down next to the encounter deck.

During the game, trap cards will be dealt face down from the trap deck. When trap cards are revealed and then discarded, they are placed in a special discard pile that belongs to the trap deck. If the trap deck is ever empty, shuffle the trap discard pile back into the trap deck. There is no penalty for doing this.

RULES CLARIFICATIONS

Q. When you deal yourself a trap card, do you reveal it as well?

A. You only reveal your trap cards when you are instructed to. In this scenario, only the "Forced Interrupt"-effect on Kraven the Hunter will instruct you to reveal the trap cards that have been dealt to you.

Q What happens to the enemy that would be defeated in Chameleon's "Forced Interrupt"-effect?

A. The instance of damage that would defeat the enemy is healed from that enemy.

Q. What happens when you're instructed to deal yourself a trap card, but there are no trap cards left in the deck and discard pile?

A. Nothing happens. If you cannot resolve the text, then you ignore that text.

Q. Do trap cards count as encounter cards for the purpose of effects that refer to encounter cards?

A. No, trap cards do not count as encounter cards.

CAMPAIGN INSTRUCTIONS

SETUP:

- If Vermin escaped, add the Vermin minion from the Hunt Campaign set to the encounter deck.
- If Scorpion joined you, remove the Scorpion minion in the encounter deck from the game.
- If Lizard escaped, add the Lizard minion from the Hunt Campaign set to the encounter deck.
- If Vulture joined you, remove the Vulture minion in the encounter deck from the game.
- Each player may spend 2 Experience to increase their starting hand size by 1. The additional card a player draws this way is only drawn during setup.

- Expert Campaign Only: Set each player's hit points to their remaining hit point value recorded in the campaign log for the previous scenario.

- Expert Campaign Only: Each player may spend any amount of Experience they have, and heal 1 damage from their identity for each Experience they spend this way.

- Expert Campaign Only: Each player may add 1 random obligation from their expert campaign set to their deck to heal their identity to its full hit point value.

- Hunter Mode Only: Put the Master Trapper environment from the Hunter Mode set into play.

VICTORY:

Kraven falls to his knees, with his head hanging low. You ask him why he did all of this. He lifts his head up, revealing a prideful grin and says: "It is dishonorable to take the name of an animal, unless you fully become the animal. Fiends like Scorpion, Vulture, and the others need to be taught that lesson. They must understand what it costs to be an animal, so I simply triggered the feral instincts in their brains and let them see what it's like. I knew it would catch your attention, but I didn't expect you to actually defeat me. It would seem I have become Kraven the Hunted! Thank you, heroes, for giving me the hunt of a lifetime." Kraven collapses on the ground, and is later confirmed dead. The animal-themed villains are arrested, despite their lack of control in their recent crimes, but that is to be decided by the judicial system. The heroes pat themselves on the back for putting an end to Kraven's madness, but feel bad that it had to go down this way.

➤ Kraven the Hunter is defeated and the players win the campaign!

LOSS:

In a hallucinatory state, you see Kraven pointing a rifle at you and say: "You heroes gave me a great hunt! As the apex predator I must now kill my prey..." Usually, the villain would hold a dramatic monologue at this point, giving the heroes enough time to escape, but this is not that type of story. The last thing you hear before you all die is a thundering KRA-KOOOMMM!!!

➤ Kraven the Hunter has defeated you and the players lose the campaign...

EXPERT CAMPAIGN RULES

For players who want a more challenging campaign experience, the Hunting Season custom expansion comes with everything you need to play an expert campaign.

EXPERT CAMPAIGN SET

There are four encounter sets labeled "Expert Campaign Set." Each set contains the same four encounter cards with player-card backs. These cards can be added to a player's deck during a campaign.

At the beginning of a campaign, each player is assigned a number from 1 to 4 in the campaign log. Each Expert Campaign Set is also numbered from 1 to 4. When a player is instructed to add a card from their expert-encounter set to their deck, they must take that card from the set that matches their player number.

PERSISTENT DAMAGE

While playing the Hunting Season campaign at the expert level, each player must record their remaining hit points in the campaign log after they win a game. This determines each player's starting hit points for the next scenario. If a player's remaining hit point value is higher than their base hit point value, record their base hit points in the campaign log instead. The setup instructions for each scenario offer players the opportunity to restore their identity to their full hit point value by adding an encounter card from their expert-campaign set to their deck.

If a player is defeated during a scenario that their teammates go on to win, they can rejoin their teammates for the next scenario by adding an encounter card to their deck during setup to restore their identity to full hit points.

ENCOUNTER CARDS IN PLAYER DECKS

The encounter cards in the expert campaign sets have player-card backs because they are meant to be added to player decks, but they are still encounter cards.

When a player draws an encounter card from their deck, they must immediately put that card into play in their play area. They do not draw a card to replace that encounter card.

These encounter cards represent the consequences of a player's choices. As a result, only the player with the encounter card in their play area can use their abilities to deal with that card.

HUNTER MODE ENVIRONMENTS

When starting an expert campaign, the players can choose to play on Hunter Mode. Playing on Hunter Mode counts as playing an expert campaign and therefore follows all the rules of an expert campaign, with the addition of an environment for each scenario. A named environment is put into play at the setup of each scenario if the players are playing in Hunter Mode, and increases the difficulty of the scenario considerably. To get the highest-level difficulty for this campaign without playing the scenarios on heroic difficulty, the players should play an expert campaign on Hunter Mode and against each scenario on expert.
